Danielle Friedman Trio is a piano, bass and drums ensemble.

Their music derives from the Jazz, Classical and Latin music worlds. The music is composition-based, and at the same time, focuses on communication and improvisation. Hailing from different parts of the world, each individual musicians' influences, languages and culture is apparent in the music. The band uses the composition as a navigational map throughout the piece, and ultimately focuses on the inspiration of the moment. Each take of a song is different and shines various parts and moods of the piece.

The Trio was formed in New York City, and together, they have been working for two years, and are about to release their debut album.
