ANTOINE RESERBAT-PLANTEY

Japanese composer Reiko Yamada (www.reikoyamada.com) and French saxophonist / physicist Antoine Reserbat-Plantey will present a concert titled Sazanami. The evening will feature an hour-long blend of pre-composed materials and improvisations performed on saxophones and analog synthesizers. The concert will combine the rich, sustained tones and multiphonics of the saxophone with the evolving textures of analog and semi-modular Moog synthesizers, creating a deeply meditative atmosphere.

Yamada's work spans concert compositions, sound art installations, and interdisciplinary collaborations, with a focus on exploring the aesthetic of imperfection across various contexts. Reserbat-Plantey is a CNRS researcher in quantum photonics whose artistic interests reflect the physical properties of acoustic phenomena.
